MESSAGE FROM THE CEO

The Black Business Directory is a long-standing tradition of the Black Business Initiative. This year's directory, 2020-2021, reaches the 23-year mark.

The Black Business Directory serves as a resource guide for entrepreneurs, business-owners, and the community by providing a package of information on Black-owned businesses, entrepreneurial support agencies, organizations in the public sector and more. The listings could be potential connections to new opportunities and resources including new information, additional customers, an expanded network, and perhaps opportunities for effective participation in lucrative supply chains.

Throughout the year, we have been speaking to the theme "Milestone with Momentum" in recognition of BBI's 25 years of service. This is a significant milestone attributed to boldness, ambition, and a strong vision and strategy for changing the face of business and economic development.

BBI's growth is continuing through strategic engagement with our partners and stakeholders in Nova Scotia to promote the work that our organization and our clients are undertaking. The desired result is an inclusive mainstream business economy that creates a level playing field and a dynamic and vibrant Black presence within Nova Scotia and the broader Canadian business community.

As a champion for the Black business community, BBI strives to enhance how we deliver our programming to provide tools for businesses to effectively compete in the fourth Industrial Revolution.

We thank you for your continued support. Let us continue our progress with momentum.

Respectfully,

Chief Executive Officer (Interim)

25 YEARS AT A GLANCE

Celebrating 25 years of ground-breaking business development

Addressing A Community's Needs

In 1995, a task force was formed that included community members to address the unique needs confronting the Nova Scotian Black business community at the time. Key concerns identified were underdeveloped business skills, lack of access to capital, few role models, lack of knowledge of how to take advantage of financial programs, and discrimination at the institutional level.

After 18 community consultations, the task force created a report with its recommendations, delivering it to the government of the day.

On May 25, 1995, federal and provincial politicians gathered at the Black Cultural Centre to announce a five-year, $5 million commitment to a new initiative for Black entrepreneurs and the economic development of Nova Scotia's Black communities.

A year later, the Black Business Initiative, as it would be known, had its grand opening at Pier 22 on October 25, 1996.

A Vision Realized

25 years later, the BBI remains committed to its vision to foster a dynamic and vibrant Black presence in Nova Scotia and the Atlantic Provinces. Its ultimate mission is to positively influence Nova Scotia's business culture by promoting and assisting in the development of Nova Scotian Black-owned businesses.

Today, BBI has upwards of 16 staff, 3500+ clients, a thriving youth charity in Business is Jammin' and upcoming projects that will expand the organization's scope and impact in Atlantic Canada and beyond.

A Milestone With Momentum

With all of this in mind, "A Milestone with Momentum" is the perfect theme for this historic anniversary. This theme celebrates 25 years of achievement while acknowledging that BBI is ramping up for the next phase of ground-breaking business development.

The board and staff of BBI have worked - tirelessly with the support of skilled and generous partners and funders - guided by the principles that led to the creation of the organization. BBI has fundamentally changed the landscape of the business community in Nova Scotia, but we truly believe that the best is yet to come.

DID YOU KNOW?

Locations

The BBI opened two locations in 1996, a training office on Gottingen Street, and a head office at 1575 Brunswick Street. In 2009, it was moved to one location in the Centennial Building at 1660 Hollis Street.

Development Loans

Through its provincial and federal funding, it mainly became known as a lending institution for Black-owned businesses and community groups. However, it also offered a resource library, technical expertise and assistance in dealing with financial institutions and government agencies.

Training

The BBI also began partnering with institutions and organizations to offer the community training on business-related matters, including taxation, marketing, financial planning, accounting and web page design.

"[BBI] was known and seen as a funding and business skills development organization in the beginning and its first five years was about that a lot," says Rustum Southwell, founding and current interim CEO.

"In the five years that followed, it was about making good companies better, supporting their growth and helping them see the importance of business success.

IMPACT OF COVID-19 ON ANS BUSINESSES REPORT

z first detailed study on the impact of Covid-19 on Black businesses.

Introduction

The Impact of COVID-19 on African Nova Scotian (ANS) Businesses Survey Report was released by the BBI. Harvi Millar, Ph.D. of Logix Consultants Limited. Saint Mary's University was the research consultant on the survey, which was funded by the Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency (ACOA). The survey, the first of a two-part study, aimed, in part, to obtain knowledge that can be used to develop a comprehensive tripartite strategy for post-COVID-19 recovery of ANS businesses involving BBI, the businesses and government.

Black Entrepreneurship in Canada

The history of Black entrepreneurship in Canada began with the enslavement of Africans in the 1600s. During Canada's 200 years of enslavement, Africans were forced to provide unpaid labour. Thousands of Africans were enslaved in Ontario, Quebec, and the Maritimes. The practice of slavery took place in every county in Nova Scotia.

The war of American independence (1775-83) and American Civil war in 1861-65 created conditions that led to the arrival of African Americans to Nova Scotia, first as loyalists to the British crown and then as refugees fleeing the civil war. While the loyalists were free, slavery was alive and well in Nova Scotia. Other importations saw the arrival of Jamaican Maroons who, when captured by the British after plantation revolts, were imprisoned and sent to Nova Scotia in the late 1700s. Many of the Africans were skilled artisans forced to sell their labour on the open market because of racial discrimination in hiring. This often led to confrontations between white loyalists and African Nova Scotians. This continued terror forced many African Nova Scotians underground. They eventually had to sell their skills as self-employed artisans.

Despite this history of racism, Black entrepreneurship began to take root and grow, eventually becoming part of the fabric of Canadian life. As more Black people migrated to Canada (The North Star) from the US seeking economic stability for their families, they found themselves excluded from fair market competition, and of necessity, devised self-reliant strategies of survival.

Survey Findings

This report presents the findings of a survey of the impact of Covid-19 on African Nova Scotian Businesses. A total of 59 entrepreneurs participated in the study from eight counties spanning 9 industrial categories. The businesses were primarily services and were small employing under 5 persons.

The results show that covid-19 had a significant impact on the business community with loss of revenues; temporary and permanent closures; layoffs; low cash on hand; supplier delays; reduced operating capacity; and possible permanent shrinkage in their customer bases.

(BIJ) was founded in 1999.

SURVEY TAKEAWAYS

DEMOGRAPHY TAKEAWAYS

The responses from the survey provide great insight into the aspirations and struggles of African Nova Scotian businesses. The following are some of the key takeaways.

WOMEN-LED ENTREPRENEURSHIP:

Many Black businesses are led by women. As such there is a need for gender-specific supports that consider the intersection between gender and race.

SMALL SIZE:

The majority of Black businesses are small in nature making scalability difficult.

YOUTH ENGAGEMENT:

There was a notable lack of youth participation in the study. The next generation of business owners and leaders are the youth and as such their aspirations and needs must be fully understood and catered to.

CASH-STRAPPED:

Many Black businesses are cash strapped making access to both free and affordable funding crucial requirements for growth and success among Black businesses.

SELF-FINANCING:

The difficulty with securing capital from financial institutions have forced Black businesses to resort to self-financing.

COVID-19 IMPACT TAKEAWAYS

The following are some of the takeaways related to the impact of covid-19.

REDUCED OPERATING CAPACITY:

The majority of our respondents experienced a reduction in the operating capacity of their businesses.

PUBLIC HEALTH PROTOCOLS:

Meeting the expectations associated with Nova Scotia's public health protocols is an ongoing issue for Black businesses as many of their services involve customer contact.

CHALLENGES TO BUSINESS GROWTH:

The majority of our respondents are worried about short-term survival and long-term growth. Concerns around financing, customer migration, a second wave of the pandemic are quite notable.

BUSINESSES NEEDS:

There are several needs that must be addressed to allow for short-term survival and subsequent growth. They include marketing, financing, services for owners with disabilities, networking opportunities, technology integration, access to new suppliers, business training, and retaining existing customer and finding new customers.
